DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 1 – 19, 28 – 35 and 38 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected without traverse, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 20December 2007.

Priority

2. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Drawings

3. The drawings filed on 08 May 2006 are accepted for the examination of this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 20 – 24, 26 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Toshihiko et al. (JP 0607-020637).

Claim 20: In Figs. 6 and 7 the reference discloses developing solution nozzles and rinsing solution nozzles (61, 62) and (81, 82), respectively; a rotatable support 63, 83, respectively; a light radiation mechanism 65, 85, respectively. A separate chemical nozzle is not used, but using a different nozzle for each treatment liquid is an arrangement that would not involve an inventive skill. Nozzles are conventionally shifted from a standby position to an operating position, therefore using the shifting means as claimed would not have required an inventive skill for the person of ordinary skill in the art. The light radiation mechanism radiates light of a predetermined wavelength.

Claims 21, 26, 27: the reference does not disclose details concerning the light radiation mechanism, but in Fig. 7, the mechanism is in an elongated casing. Using a single light source or an array of light sources are arrangements that would not have involved an inventive skill on the part of the ordinary person working in this field. Having a stationary light radiation mechanism and rotating the substrate support; scanning the light radiation mechanism and using a stationary substrate support; or having a scanning mechanism and a rotating support are arrangements of relative movement that one of ordinary skill would be familiar with and would not have needed an inventive skill to use.

Claims 22, 23: The reference does not disclose nozzles having an elongated configuration in one direction as claimed. Using such a shape is not novel and one of ordinary skill in the art would have selected such a shape to increase the rate/time of dispensing the solutions by covering more of the substrate with the nozzle. Combining all or different ones of the nozzles in one integrated casing is very common in the art and such an arrangement would have been used without the need of an inventive skill.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 24, 25 and 36 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art does not disclose having the chemical liquid nozzle integrated in parallel with the casing of the light radiation mechanism.
